Rites For Crash Victim Will Be Held on Saturday

Walter H. Wyss

MONROE—Funeral services for Walter H. Wyss, 23, Monroe, who was killed in a car crash Thursday near Paoli when his car and that of Elmer Bavery, 28, Basco collided, will be held at 2 Saturday in the Shriner Neushwander chapel here. The Rev. L. R. Robinson, will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

2 Killed, Four Hurt as Cars Hit Head-On

Paoli, Monroe Drivers Die in Auto Crash Near Paoli

Two men were killed and four Paoli women were injured, two seriously, in a head-on automobile collision on Dane county trunk highway PB, 2 miles south of Paoli, at 1:30 a. m. today.

Dead and Injured

WALTER H. WYSS, 23, Monroe.

ELMER BAVERY, 28, Paoli.

The injured:

MRS. ELMER BAVERY, 24, Paoli.

ROSEMARY BAVERY, 16, Paoli.

EDNA BAVERY, 23, Paoli.

FLORENCE BAVERY, 26, Paoli.

Herman Lehman, Verona, brought the four Paoli women to St. Mary's hospital, Madison, where it was reported Rosemary and Mrs. Bavery had suffered serious injuries, and Edna and Florence Bavery minor injuries. Lehman came on the scene of the collision shortly after the accident.

Hospital attaches said the women suffered the following injuries:

Rosemary Bavery, fractured leg and severe face lacerations; Mrs. Bavery, severe face and minor body lacerations; Edna Bavery, minor body and face lacerations; Florence Bavery, minor face lacerations.

The two men killed were drivers of the cars, according to County Traffic Officer ~~Wesley Hyland and Robert Brumm~~ who investigated.

Cause of the accident, which occurred near the farm of Thomas Gaffney, town of Montrose chairman, was not immediately determined.

Returning From Dance

Bavery, a farmer, his three sisters and his wife were returning to Paoli from a "wedding dance" at New Glarus at the time of the accident, according to Coroner Edward A. Fischer. Wyss was returning to Monroe after visiting friends in Madison.

Fischer said that he probably would hold an inquest. He swore in a jury today at Belleville, then adjourned it until further notice. He probably will hold the inquest when the four injured women are able to testify, he said.

Members of the coroner's jury are Vaughn Riley, George Staley, E. M. Disch, Julian Francois, Vernon Ross and James Swain, all of Belleville.

Wyss was a clerk in the Monroe Royal Blue store. Born at Monroe, he was graduated from the high school there in 1927.

Wyss Survivors

Survivors of Wyss are his mother, Mrs. Henry Wyss, Monroe; seven sisters, Mrs. Henry Elmer, Mrs. Fred Hirshbrunner, Darlington; Mrs. Christ Youssi, Mrs. Herman Babler, Monticello; Mrs. David Fritz, Monroe; Mrs. Edward Kline, Mrs. George White, Chicago.

Survivors of Bavery, besides his widow and three sisters, are another sister, Darlene, 9, Paoli; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bavery, Paoli; three daughters, Dolores, 10, Ruth 7, and Joan, 2; and one brother, Alvin, 20, university student from Paoli.

Fischer ordered the bodies of the two men taken to the Becker funeral home, Belleville.

The Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:

He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of
the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me; Thy rod and
thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence
of mine enemies: thou anointest my head
with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

The Twenty-Third Psalm

*The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the
paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of
the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me; Thy rod and
thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence
of mine enemies: thou anointest my head
with oil; my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
all the days of my life: and I will
dwell in the house of the Lord forever.*

Taunts WITH JAMIE

Death Comes To Monticello

I stayed at the Christ Yaussi home in Monticello. It's a large, two-story house — the sort you see surrounded by half an acre of lawn as you drive through the elm-shaded streets of small Wisconsin towns. Perhaps you, too, have wondered who lives in these comfortable, spacious old homes.

Well, the Yaussis were dairy farmers until a dozen years ago. Their daughters had grown up and married so they came to town to take it easy. Yaussi went to work for the Green county highway commission and Mrs. Yaussi directed her tremendous energy towards church and civic life.

She visited the sick and welcomed the newcomers to town, often bringing them into her home to live until they found places of their own, or in the case of the sick, until they got well.

THE YAUSSI HOME is as sweet and fresh as a young girl dressed for her first communion. It reflects the crisp, cool feeling of white dotted Swiss curtains.

Neighbors had taken the laundry home with them and while I was there they were bringing it back piece by piece — even work shirts had been washed and ironed with the care usually reserved for those of the dress variety.

Mrs. Tait, Hilda, or "Hil" as she is called, gave each visitor one of her mother's hand-embroidered aprons or a pretty house dress. "I know mother would want you to have it."

Speechless, as people are at such a time, they would stare out of the windows at Mrs. Yaussi's vegetable garden making a pleasing pattern in the spacious lawn at one side of the house, and at the flower garden on the other side, the most fitting memorial of all, perhaps, for it is mute evidence of their departed friend's love of living things.

But there were no tears, rather a deep and abiding gratefulness for having shared the beauty and industry of their friend who knew how to live, and how to die.

MRS. YAUSSI WAS "AWAY" when I visited Monticello. She and her husband had made a tour of the East Coast with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tait of Seattle, and the new grandson, Michael Yaussi Tait.

Shortly after their return to Monticello Mrs. Yaussi lay down on a favorite couch, went to sleep, and never awakened. Mrs. Yaussi managed her death as she had managed her life—ever thoughtful of family and friends.

She left a note in the old German family Bible telling what she wanted to wear and that she'd like to be laid out in the parlor so that she could have her last visit with her friends in the room where she had spent so many happy living hours with them.

Three hundred and fifty came to pay homage to their friend and signed the register. And that's not all. They took over the management of the household. They knew that Mrs. Yaussi would want her friends to have coffee and a snack just as they had had in former days.

So neighbors brought hot food, cold food, 15 cakes and hundreds of cookies.

I did not attend the funeral, but the Zwingli Evangelical Reformed Church was crowded and overflowing. I read the Rev. A. R. Achtemeier's inspired and moving tribute to a friend and neighbor who had devoted so many years to the service of her community.

There was no morbidity of death in his words, rather of peace, beauty and a well-earned rest after a long and busy life. And Mrs. Yaussi's memorial will not be something commemorating death, but life. It is to be a silver service for church weddings.

SHOWER HELD AFTER WEDDING

So Well Was Secret Of Marriage Kept.

David Fritz and Miss Ida L. Wyss were married on Saturday evening at 6:30 at the parsonage of Rev. Schuh and at 8 o'clock that same evening many friends of the bride assembled at her home for a shower, not knowing the event with which they were honoring her had already taken place. The friends kept their shower plans a secret, came to surprise the "future" bride and the then bride went them one further by saying nothing about her marriage in the earlier part of the evening. The groom dropped in at the home later in the evening, pretending surprise at the gathering he found there, and said nothing about his part in the ceremony of the early evening. The result is that Mr. and Mrs. David Fritz have the last laugh upon their well-meaning friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz were attended at the ceremony by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fritz. The bride wore a Poiret Twill dress, trimmed in grey, wore a hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink tea roses. Rev. Schuh performed the ceremony at his parsonage.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wyss, residing at 607 S. Monroe street, a young lady who has lived most of her life in this city and is most favorably known to a large number. Mr. Fritz is the well known garage proprietor whose place of business is on E. Racine street. The bride received many valuable, pretty and useful presents at the home shower. Both have a large circle of friends who extend congratulations and best wishes. They are to reside at the Fritz home in E. Racine street.

MRS. CHRIST YAUSSE FUNERAL SERVICES HELD ON SATURDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Christ Yausse, 57, who died suddenly, following a heart attack, Wednesday, July 8, at her home in Monticello, were held Saturday in the Zwingli Evangelical and Reformed church with Rev. A. R. Achtemeier officiating. Burial was in the Highland cemetery.

Mrs. Yausse the former Haddie Wyss, was born in Calamine on February 11, 1896, the daughter of the late Henry and Minnie Sellnow Wyss. She attended rural schools in the Darlington area.

She was married at Monroe on February 4, 1915, to Christ Yausse and they farmed in Washington township until 1941 when they retired to Monticello.

She was a member of the G. U. G. Lodge, Monroe, Royal Neighbors, Women's Relief Corps, the two aid societies of the Washington Reformed and Zwingli Evangelical and Reformed churches and the Town Hall Homemakers club.

Surviving are her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Charles Tait, Seattle, Washington and Mrs. William Tuescher, Orangeville; five sisters, Mrs. Fred Hirsbrunner and Mrs. Henry Elmer of Darlington; Mrs. Herman Babler, Monticello; Mrs. Robert Richardson of Monroe; and Miss Leona Wyss of Chicago; four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

His modern brick business building at 1715 Twelfth street he built in the early 20's.

- xi. WALTER HENRY WYSS, b. January 06, 1914, Monroe, Wisconsin; d. October 21, 1937.

Notes for WALTER HENRY WYSS:

Walter Henry Wyss died instantly in a head on sideswipe collision on the blacktop "cut-off" road that may motorists use between Paoli and a point on the New Glarus hills west of Belleville, county PB, two miles south of Paoli. He was driving in his sedan alone, en-route home from an evening in Madison. He was 23. The accident took place north of the Thomas Gaffney farm, which is north of the Central Cheese Factory. Some observers of the accident scene held the theory that one of the drivers must have dozed off and his car veered into the other. Ned Wyss, Monroe, friend of Walter Wyss, who checked out the scene and wreckage, said the crash was at a very slight bend on the road and he feels that the other car may have cut the bend short and caught the oncoming Wyss car.

Walter was struck on the left side by glass from his windshield and the hood that was rammed through it, his arm being cut to the bone, his jugular vein severed and the left side of his face badly lacerated. His body was pinned in the upright car. His body was taken to the Shriner- Neuenschwander funeral home in Monroe.

He had been a clerk at the Royal Blue Store since it opened in 1933 and attended the local schools and was graduated from Monroe high school and the Green County Normal. He lived with his mother at 1021 Twenty-fourth street, the home where he was born. His funeral was at the Shriner- Neuenschwander funeral parlor and the Rev. L. R. Robinson, pastor of the Universalist Church officiated. He was buried in the Greenwood cemetery.
